

Ann Stroink graduated from Bloomington High School in 1972 and is a Neurosurgeon in Bloomington. Dr. Stroink is an enthusiastic, dedicated and tireless leader in her professional and community. She constructs and creates an environment that improves quality of life through acts of volunteerism, advocating for advances in patient care, lobbying for progressive and cutting-edge treatment modalities and equipment, adding to the physician knowledge-base through research and education, and using her skills to train future healthcare providers in the art of neurosurgery. Dr. Stroink co-founded the Central Illinois Neuroscience Foundation dedicated to enhancing neuro healthcare through education and research.
